Timeline

The image displays two identical, vertically oriented timeline templates. Each template consists of a central horizontal axis with a grid of vertical lines. The vertical lines are grouped into 12 distinct sections, each separated by a thicker vertical line. Above and below the central axis, there are two rows of diagonal lines, each starting from a small square marker on the left and extending to the right. The entire timeline structure is enclosed within a vertical frame on both sides, with small diamond-shaped markers at the top and bottom corners of the frame. The top and bottom corners of the frame also feature L-shaped corner markers.
